

1. No advertising of marijuana, marijuana products, or licensed marijuana businesses where the advertisement is visible to members of the public from any street, sidewalk, park, or other public place.
2. No fliers, handbills, or pamphlets.
3. No portable signs, billboards, or vehicle-mounted signs.
4. No balloons, sandwich boards, or sign spinners.
5. No booth signs advertising a marijuana business, marijuana or marijuana products, including signs that openly advertise a marijuana business and signs that depict the logo of a marijuana business.
6. Event organizer may have numbered signs on vendor tents that correspond with a vendor map. The vendor map may list the name of the vendor at each location, and nothing more.
7. If a licensed marijuana business sponsors the event (and the event is a “charitable” event), the business may be named on a sign that lists all sponsors. Sponsor marijuana businesses may not have signs on their booths advertising marijuana or their business.
8. No products that advertise a marijuana business can be visibly displayed.
 - a. Products (such as t-shirts or hats) must be stored out-of-sight of the public.
 - b. Products must be placed in a non-descript opaque bag after purchase by a customer.
 - c. Vendor may have a sign with language similar to the following:
“T-shirts and hats available upon request”
9. Vendors may give away branded items for free (“swag”), but these items must not be visible to members of the public from any street, sidewalk, park, or other public place. (See #7 and #8 above)
10. Vendor tents may not have signs or any form of advertising marijuana or the marijuana business. At past events held in city parks, marijuana businesses have had three-sided white tents; however, one side of the booth must remain open at all times.
11. Marijuana or marijuana products may not be sold or consumed at the event. In addition, marijuana or marijuana products may not be displayed in city parks.
12. Vendors may sell marijuana accessories or paraphernalia, but may not use such products as a form of advertising.

This type of booth sign is not permissible.
